

Skin Care Never Looked so Green!

By Lily Morgan, with Karen Larré

Long before it was fashionable to do so, Lily Organics had been making some of the greenest products in the world – certified organic skin care products. A 7th generation American farmer and certified organic grower, Lily Morgan's passion for living and growing "green" has been a way of life for more than 20 years. Lily's herbs, which comprise most of the ingredients in her skin care line, are organically grown fresh weekly on the Lily farm. And Lily products never include chemicals or synthetic ingredients. Her line of facial creams, cleansers, masks, treatments and toners are "all naturale". Lily Morgan's stance is, "to truly heal, stimulate and affect the skin in a positive way, the ingredients must be alive; they must have a life force." And when you try Lily products, you'll notice the difference immediately!

In addition to producing fabulous, healthy, organic skin care products, Lily Organics doesn't use custom-made fancy boxes that look good on the shelf (but kill trees, pollute streams and end up in landfills). They ship in recycled boxes from a local food bank for seniors and manufacture using 100% recyclable glass. The entire company disposes of less than one half of one trash bag per week (and Lily is working to reduce even further!). This not only keeps Colorado farmland green, it almost completely reduces the carbon footprint in transporting Lily products to retail stores. This is in stark contrast to most other skincare providers who add harmful chemicals and additives to their products, manufacture them in large factories that release carbon dioxide gases into the air and over-package, creating excessive waste.

When consumers buy organic products, they are helping to promote sustainable agriculture. Everyone who chooses to support green business practices is helping to fight global warming and assist in creating a healthier earth.

The best news for consumers is that Mother Nature is the best cure for Father

Time. A synergistic blend of Lily and Comfrey is the best anti-aging duo on the planet. Comfrey helps collagen reknit and reweave the skin; and coupled with Lily's anti-inflammatory and cell regenerative properties, your skin will radiate. Our Balancing Toner and Sensitive Facial Cleanser-Unscented, Sensitive Facial Toner, Oil Free Conditioning Serum, Organic Moisture Mist, and Rejuvenation Enzyme Mask – all have the magical combo of Lily and Comfrey extract.

We at Lily Organics are redefining quality in skin care, from seed to shelf. We harness all the power and goodness from Mother Nature and capture it in a bottle to help you glow with beauty. Who knew that living eco-friendly could be so beautiful?
